Obituary

Barron Michael Weir was born to Deirdre Darden-Weir and Michael Jerome Weir on April 9, 1983 in Boston, Ma. The Lord called him home on September 21, 2010.

Barron had several passions that helped shape him into the man we came to know, respect and love. His first love was tennis. He picked up a tennis racket at the age of two and never put it down. He learned the game at The Franklin Field Tennis Center in Boston where the coaches had to let him play at the age of two because he was always sneaking onto the courts. The tennis Center Director Mr. Smith, would say "just put Barron on the tennis court to play because he is going to drive us crazy if you don't". Barron traveled all over the country to play tennis. It was on the courts where he was most happy. During his life he moved to South Orange New Jersey where he attended school and continued to play tennis. It is there where he also developed a love for basketball. He graduated from Columbia High School in New Jersey where he played basketball for four years. Barron was Captain of the Tennis team from his sophomore to senior year. He went on to attend Hampton University where he graduated with a BA in Psychology. After graduating from Hampton, he realized that his love and true passion was in cars and wanted to be an auto-mechanic. He loved cars as much as he loved tennis, this love was also clear at a very early age. He went on to attend Lincoln Technical Institute graduating from the Automotive School where he maintained a 4.0 GPA. After graduation he was employed as an auto mechanic at The Dealer Alternative in West Orange, New Jersey.

Barron also had a strong love for children, he would teach kids tennis and teach them about cars. Through his passion, he would share how great cars truly were and pass on a new appreciation of the automobile. It was this love of children that led him to help teach children at his Mother's daycare. It was here where he touched the lives and gave hope to many inner city youth.
