Obituary

Grace Evelyn Green Brown was born on August 6, 1917 to Matilda Burke Green and Frederick Green in New York City. She was the second oldest of four girls.

As a child she attended P.S. 157 and 136. She graduated from Haaren High School and at the age of 73, she received her Bachelor of Arts from Queens College.

On August 2, 1942, she married Raymond M. Brown. This union produced two children, Vincent Cordell and Frederica Gail.

In 1942, Grace began her long tenure with the U.S. Postal Service. She retired in November of 1982 after thirty-eight years of service.

She spent much of her retirement traveling with her husband and being involved with her grandchildren and shopping!

Grace loved to read and was not happy without a book. She often reminisced about exciting trips in New York to the library with her sisters. Beginning in her teen years, Grace enjoyed her gift for poetry writing some sixty poems over the years.

She will be greatly missed and leaves to mourn: a son, Vincent Cordell; a daughter, Fredrica Gail; four grandchildren, Jenelle Daria, J. Sterling, Tanner Olu and Louisa Ajabu; and a host of extended family and friends.

True Love

I've nothing much to give you on this auspicious day
Naught else have I to offer except my love so true
I know it seems a small thing after all you've done for me
But darling please accept this compliment from me.
I'll take it from its hiding place where it has lain so long
I'll wrap it up in shining stars and bind it with a song
And then I'll box it tenderly so handle it with care
This gift now in your keeping to cherish year on year
And if it in some measure conveys to you my dear
The depth of my affection, how very much I care.
I'll feel that I have given much more than wealth can buy
For true love mellows with the years, and grows, it never dies.

May It Rest In Peace

*I've laid away my weary past
In lavender and laces fire;
No more to hear its phrases o'er
As twilight's many shadows fade,
There too are laid in stately grace
Sweet childhood dreams, so white so chaste
I love to think they've found a place
In which they play or fairy games
And gambol o'er a pleasant sea
But now and then again I think,
That they might lonely be,
So now to bear them company,
This aged past to them I send;
There to reside in shady streams,
Companion to a few stray dreams.
And lest I miss my buried past
And grieve in sorrow, than at last
I'll pluck life's hollow reed anew
And write my future then, for you*
