Obituary

My mother was one of the most amazing people I have ever met and will probably ever meet. She spent her life for others; she never put herself before others. She would often go out of her way to reach those who were in need. She was also often a counselor when the times called for it. I knew I could come to her no matter what the reason or circumstance. I loved her with all my heart and will truly miss her.

Juliette was born December 14, 1954 and raised in Port-Au-Prince, Haiti. She was the first born of three girls to Theresa Cashmir. She later on migrated to this country in her early twenties. After being in the US for a short time she became a US citizen. After that her life consisted of hard work and dedication to her family.

Last May, my mom was diagnosed with acute lung disorder after being admitted to the hospital for breathing difficulties. Once the test results came back from her doctor, we were told that her breathing informed us that her lungs were so severely damaged that her best option would be to have a lung transplant.

Within the past year, we witnessed how her health had deteriorated. But her strength was always there. Because of the lung disorder my mom was not able to physically do some of the activities she once enjoyed and was often homebound. She had to remain on oxygen for twenty-four hours a day and rely on family and friends to check on her. We did as much as we could do to make her as comfortable as possible during the last few days of her life.

She leaves to cherish precious memories: her husband, Israel Jean-Baptiste; daughters, Sahadia Charles and Joelle Jean-Baptiste; and sisters, Norice Jameau, Monique Nique Nathurin and Momo Beneche.

*If tears could build a stairway
And memories were a lane.
We would walk right up to heaven
And bring you back again
No farewell words were spoken
No time to say goodbye
You were gone before we knew it
And only God knows why
Our hearts still ache in sadness
And secret tears still flow
What it meant to love you
No one can ever know
But now we know you want us
To mourn for you no more
To remember all the happy times
Life still has much in store
Since you'll never be forgotten
We pledge to you today
A hallowed place within our hearts
Is where you'll always stay.*

*If
Tears
Could
Build
Stairway*

Acknowledgement

Perhaps you sent a lovely card or sat quietly in a chair.
Perhaps you sent a floral piece If so, we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words as any friend could say.
Perhaps you were not there at all just thought of us on that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts, We Thank You, Whatever the part.
