Obituary

The life of a generous woman, Mable Williams.

Mable the Child - In Walterboro, SC, March 19, 1953 on this glorious day God sent an angel on this earth. Mable Spells was born to the late Rosevelt and Rosetta Spells. Mable received her education through the Walterboro, SC School system.

Mable the Woman - Mable moved to East Orange, NJ in 1973 and worked at Newark Extended Care for thirty-eight years. Mable truly loved her job, the staff and the residents. She later met Fred Williams and they married on November 17, 1975 through this union they had a daughter, Angela Williams who was the love of her life. Mable enjoyed traveling, dancing, she always had a smile on her face and always a kind word. Mable was a self-less woman that would give you her last and would never see anyone homeless or hungry.

Ecclesiastes 3:1-6 - A Time to Die - Everyone has love in their heart for Mable and she will be remembered by all for many reasons. On Saturday morning, December 18, 2010 God sent His angel and whispered into Mable's ear "Come unto me and rest".

She is reunited with her father, Rosevelt Spells. Her spirit is kept alive by: her husband, Fred; daughter, Angela; son-in-law, James; step-daughter, Felicia; her six grandchildren, Maurice, Johnathan, Jahlil, Tazyar, Elijah and Nyerere; her mother, Rosetta; five sisters, Fannie, Ronnie, Janice, Joyce and Rosa Mae; two brothers, Alphonso (her twin brother) and Herbert; mother-in-law, Julia; sister-in-law, Loretta; brothers-in-law, Richard, Fredrick, Al, Manuel, Gilbert and Danny; dearest friend, Virginia Martin; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins and special friends.

I Have

I have laughed.

I have loved.

I have fought.

I have cried.

I have given my hand.

I have always taken a stand.

I have given my heart.

I don't know where else to start.

I have given my all.

I have taken my last fall.

I know I have done my best.

I proved it when I passed my final test.

I have not given up the fight.

I fought it with all my might.

Nothing at all has changed.

Everything will remain the same.

Please don't be angry or lay blame.

Just remember my name and all I have done.

The battle is finally won.
