A Brand New Start

You may be at my homegoing, but I won't be here. I'll be over the rainbow, in heaven somewhere.

I'll be singing a new song, with voice firm and clear,
and the one whom I worship, will be very near.

As you pass by my casket, and take one last look,
I would like for the message I've left in your book,
to be of graciousness, kindness and love
-to glorify Jesus our Savior above.

You will be at my homegoing and see my body laying here, but my spirit soars free, because of Jesus I'm near. Don't be sad, for I'm happy, I'm free at last,
away from problems of this world,
I could not let this opportunity pass;
to be with my Savior, my Jesus, my Lord,
who reigns over this world and looks down from above.

You may be at my homegoing, but I won't be there, I'll be up in that place Jesus went to prepare.

So just take it easy, give thanks and rejoice
that God is all wise and made the right choice.

You may go to my homegoing, but I won't be there. I'll be over the rainbow with never a care.

I'll be over the rainbow and singing a song,
secure in God's family to which I belong.
