Obituary

William Stanley Washington (Fox) was born on October 3, 1952. He gave his life to Jesus Christ at a very young age at Saint John's Baptist Church under the pastorship of the late Rev. Jackson. He sang in the choir and later became a member of the male chorus under the leadership of the late Albert Jackson.

Fox, as he was affectionately called by family members and friends, graduated from Far Rockaway High School, and attended Queensboro College. He left college, and was hired at McDonalds where he worked very hard serving the public. His hard work was recognized by management and he was promoted to Assistant Manager.

Fox became interested in helping people that were sick and elderly. He was granted an interview at Resorts Nursing Home and was hired. Fox spent over thirty years assisting patients with their activities of daily living. Fox loved his position, his patients, as well as his co-workers. Unfortunately, due to health reasons, he retired in 2009.

Everyone that knew Fox found him to be a well liked person. Trustworthy, dedicated and dependable.

On Palm Sunday, and ironically, on April Fool's Day, God spoke to Fox, and told him his work was complete here on Earth, and it was time to leave on a new journey.

Fox leaves to mourn: his son, Damien; his mother, Minnie; his sisters, Sue, Bettie, Gloria, Kat and Dinah; two brothers, John (Papa) and Marcus; his brothers-in-law, Willie, Claude, Douglas and Warren; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

"Me And My Only Girl"

(April 1, 2012)

To: My Family and Friends

I am sorry I had to leave and could not say goodbye. When God called, I did not question why. Please do not grieve or shed any tears for I have lived my years. I am happy here in heaven, it is so beautiful and bright. There is so much joy in this everlasting light.

I see relatives and friends from my past.

I am glad I'm home in Heaven at last.

Don't cry, we will see each other again. Remember, we are going to forget about the mustard, so we can ketchup!

Love, Fox
