Obituary

Norman Williams, Jr., was born on July 31, 1957 in Harlem, New York to the late Ernestine and Norman Sr.

Norman received his education from Walton High School and graduated from Models CDL Driving School in 1995.

He met his teenage sweet heart, Sandy Brooks and from this union they had two children. Later he met his common law wife of twenty years, Lolita Harley and from this union two families were united with open arms and love.

His family and the many friends he made throughout the years love Norman. He befriended many and treated everyone he knew as his family.

Norman enjoyed reading about history, coin collecting and traveled all over the world, China, Africa, Guyana and Hawaii to name a few. Norman truly loved fashion, he spent his life living to the fullest.

Norman departed this life on this earth March 22, 2014. He leaves many fond memories to be cherished. His mother and father preceded him in death.

He leaves to mourn his passing: his brothers, Steve and Lamont; sisters, Cynthia, Vanessa and Tanya; four brothers-in-law, one mother-in-law, Mama Kate; his five children, Norman III, Keisha, Nashawna, Shantel and Nathaniel; grandchildren, Norman IV, Jacob, Tariyah, Nathaniel Jr., Derrick, Jemaine Jr., Kameron and Krysta; great grandchild, Taylor; and a host of nieces, nephews and friends.

Miss Me But Let Me Go

*When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in a gloom filled room,
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little-but not too long,
and not with your head bowed low.
Remember the love that we once shared,
Miss me-but let me go.
For this is a journey that we all must take,
And each must go alone.
It's all part of the Master's plan,
A step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick at heart,
Go to the friends we know.
Laugh at the things we use to do
Miss me-but let me go.*
