Reflections of Life

Solange Duroseau was born in Freeport Bahamas on June 17, 1968 to Boniface Accime and Bernadette Parfait. Her parents never married so she was raised by her father and his wife, Clermelia Accime. She was the third child out of the ten children from her father's side: Clodel, Kerva, Bonita, Jean-Eddy, Clairline, Jose, Bony, Borneon, Ancelot, and Urline Accime. Solange had brothers and sisters from her biological mother, Bernadette Parfait; Antoinette Pierre-Louis, Kerby Escarment, Martha Felix, Ken, Donny and Claude Parfait.

When Solange was two years old, her father, Boniface Accime decided to leave Freeport Bahamas and returned to Haiti with his three daughters, Solange, Kerva, and Bonita. In Haiti, Solange grew up under the care of Clermelia Accime, the wife of Boniface Accime.

Solange was a very intelligent young woman. She went to school in Saint Louis du Nord, Haiti at "Joseph Justin" from Kindergarten until she completes her elementary education as an honor student. Solange then attended high school in Port-au-Prince Haiti at "College Gerard Gourgues" and became the first Accime to graduate from high school. Her family even threw a party for her to celebrate. Graduating from high school was one of Solange's greatest achievements and was one of the many memories that she would often share with her children.

While growing up in St. Louis Du Nord, Haiti, Solange met her future husband, Vilaire Duroseau and instantly fell in love. The year was 1983. Vilaire viewed Solange as his best friend and sweet heart decided to ask Solange's father, Boniface Accime, for his blessing to marry his daughter. Boniface gave Vilaire his blessing to marry Solange. And once Solange earned her high school diploma, Vilaire asked Solange's hand in marriage. The two of them got married on August 12, 1990. It was one of Solange's fondest memories and something that she would always cherish.

A year later, Solange gave birth to her first child, a boy named Jim-Kelly Duroseau on April 11, 1991. In February 1992, Solange moved to America with her ten month old son to join her husband, Vilaire C. Duroseau. In America, Solange and Vilaire decided to expand their families by adding five additional children: Estania, Stephan, Sabrina, Stacie, and Marvin Duroseau.

Solange briefly attended Essex County College in order to become a nurse. She had to withdraw from her classes at Essex County College to take care of her children. Solange never regretted her decision to withdraw from school in order to take care of her children. When asked about her decision to withdraw from school, Solange would always say that she did not regret it because she already had six degrees (her Children). However, she did go back to school and earned her degree in “Child Development” and a certificate in “How to operate your Own Day Care” from ECC. Solange was a beautiful and wonderful mother. She is unforgettable. She had a certain charm about her that just made everyone fall in love with her. She was just mommy.

Solange was a very strong woman who believed in family first! She loved her husband and children very much and sacrificed so much for them. She worked many hours in the night at Daughter of Miriam in Clifton, New Jersey. Solange’s greatest dream was to see her grandchildren.

Solange loved her parents and siblings as well; she would always make many phone calls to her brothers and sisters in Boston every day. She knew everyone’s birthday and was the first to call and say “Happy Birthday, Papa, Sis, or Bro!” She never ended a phone call without saying “I love you.” She was the first to be in every family event with her six children.

In America, Solange accepted Jesus Christ as her Lord and Savior followed by the baptism of the Holy Spirit. She was a Baptist and she loved God with all of her heart. She wanted everyone to go to church and pray

In 2005, Solange was diagnosed with breast cancer. Due to her sickness, she was unable to work at Daughters of Miriam. A year later, she was declared cancer-free and went on monthly check ups for her treatment. During this time, Solange became a stay-at-home mother, who continuously supported her children in school and extra-curricular programs, volunteering at Park Avenue Elementary School in Orange, NJ. She even supported her husband's dreams of building a nursing school.

In 2007, Solange was diagnosed once again with breast cancer. But, she was able to beat it again with ease by having a mastectomy on her right breast. Solange was very strong and was able to win the battle to cancer twice. The source of her strength stemmed from her everlasting love for her children, her husband, and her family. That is something that Solange believes in so much. Solange was an incredible woman. She was the definition of love.

Solange was also an Entrepreneur. In late April 2010, she went to the California where she took several courses at the UPS training school. And on May 10, 2010, Solange earned her certificate from the training school and was licensed to open up her own UPS store. The UPS store was opened on December 15, 2010. Solange worked at the UPS store since the store first opened until March of 2014. Even though at times the store was hectic, Solange loved her time at the store, and saw the store as a refuge and a second home. Through that store, Solange was able to meet several people who were influenced by her love and kind ways.

Solange was a simple person who was able to touch the lives of many people around her. She was ready to help a person in need before herself. She would always have a story to tell. She was an angel on Earth. Solange faced many trials in her life, and was able to overcome with ease because of her strength and her kind and gentle ways. But sadly, on April 29, 2014 at 12:30 pm, Solange was called up to be with her heavenly father, leaving the world behind, where she happily lived in peace. Solange is free and happy with her heavenly father.

Sympathies to all her families: Duroseau, Accime, Pierre-Louis, Parfait, Barlatier, Laleau, Escarment, Joseph et Cathy; to all her nephews, nieces, cousins and everyone affected by her passing.
