Obituary

We are all gathered here today to pay our respects to a very beautiful mother, grandmother, sister, aunt and friend who has been called back to heaven's garden of peace, harmony and love.

Charity Adamson, was born to Arnold Adamson and Mary Elizabeth "Mini" Watkins on October 11, 1921 in Camden, SC. She was the third oldest of four siblings, Robert, Easter, Junior and Laura (Mumsey) all of whom are now deceased. She was raised by her grandmother, Laura Cornish.

Charity Adamson left us on June 4, 2014. She was a gracious and a very humble person. She was always unselfish and never thought of herself. She sacrificed for her family and gave them everything she had. Also, she glamoured for the limelight, she loved beautiful clothes and loved to dance and dine. What's more she was a well traveled person who loved theater plays, concert halls and all the finest things society had to offer. Her wisdom was sagacious like the wise sages of old. Equally important she had total fear and submission to God and was always on her knees praying for the family.

Her most dearest friend and confidant, was her Aunt Henrietta Paul who is deceased. Charity's two children, Ronald and Darlene Adamson are also deceased. She leaves behind two loving grandsons, Lonnie and Brett; and a host of nephews, nieces, cousins and longtime friends.

If you cry, cry tears of happiness for I am in a better place.

Her Name Is Charity

A dear friend in need once asked of me,
Where can I find a beautiful honest woman inside and out who is humble, that possesses class, grace, patience, wisdom and strength, that is capable of providing unconditional love, support and comfort?
Where can I find the meaning of true friendship?
Who is willing to sacrifice for others unselfishly?
Where can I find a person with an open mind and heart?
Where can I find peace and serenity?
Who can I lean and depend on for a kind word, a meaningful hug, gentle caress or touch?
Where can I find compassion, a healing voice or smile?
I responded, you silly fool there's no mystery to all that you seek,
You see the whole time you were busy searching she has been right here with me,
Come, let me introduce to you what God has bestowed upon me
Lovingly, I call her Grandma and she is known to the rest of the world simply as Charity.
