A Poem of Departure

I know that one day I will have to go to a world where no one has yet returned but there are so many there I long to see long passed saints, relatives and Jesus' face. but I know that the longest walk is yet to come to cross the river and see the other side will be my greatest journey yet. So good-bye sister, relatives and friends hold me fondly in your heart close your eyes and you will always feel me close to you. Cry a tear or two for me, and whisper my name wherever I'm near. I walked this world as others do I lived a life that was meant for me now I go to meet the master, and give a record of my days. I will see you one day in Glory Land and welcome you with open hands Good-bye is sad but it is not forever I am only gone so we can be together...FOREVER!
