Obituary

Robert G. Samuels (Buster), son of Robert and Bebe Samuels, was born in New York City on March 21, 1949 at Harlem Hospital. He was the oldest child of two children. His mother and father preceded him in death.

Robert received his education at DeWitt High School and attended college in New Hampshire. He worked at Santini Brothers as a mover early on in his working life. He then worked at Amtrak Railroad for over thirty years as a Railroad Inspector. He was also an instructor at Amtrak and he counseled co-workers. After retirement, Buster would spend his days driving his car, walking and talking with friends in the neighborhood.

He was a very social person and he enjoyed music, dancing, socializing, playing cards and driving his beautiful Chrysler all over the city and upstate New York.

Robert leaves to mourn: his sister, Carol; his aunts, Dolores Williams, Helen Daniel and Zuline Samuels; two cousins, Gilbert and Larry Williams; and many other cousins; and a host of friends and neighbors.

Miss Me, But Let Me Go

*When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in a gloom filled room,
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little-but not too long,
and not with your head bowed low.
Remember the love that we once shared,
Miss me-but let me go.
For this is a journey that we all must take,
And each must go alone.
It's all part of the Master's plan,
A step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick at heart,
Go to the friends we know.
Laugh at the things we use to do
Miss me-but let me go.*
