Lula Mae attended Baltimore Maryland school system. Later she moved to New York City where she found her Lord and Saviour in 1968. She was a worker for the Lord, and those who knew her knew she worked for the Lord. For instance, she was known for casting out demons, bringing God's word, and teaching God's word. During her journey through her faith she introduced many people to the church of God in Christ, including the late Bishop Sexton, and one of the giants Elder Jones Wren. While she was working for the Lord, he sent her Boaz, the late Carlton Rahming who became the love of her life shortly after they gotten married.

Lula Mae was a full-time mother and housewife. She loves her children and family dearly. She was a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother, great grandmother, sister, aunt, cousin, and friend. She will be deeply missed.

Lula was predeceased by her husband and children: Vandola Watkins, Corneilus Brown, Lenard Brown, Linwood Brown, and Delores Brown Thompson.

She leaves to cherish her precious memories her children: James Newton, Thomas (Idaling) Brown, Michael (Dorothy) Brown, Quinceanne Brown, Aaron (Tracy) Brown, Nadina (Randolph) Brown-Thompson, and Charles (Denise) Frierson; as well as a host of grandchildren, nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

My mother, My mother, My mother, My mother, the one nobody couldn't say that she didn't love. My mother, my mother now she sleeps up in heaven up above on bended knees my mother would pray to watch over everyone day by day. God gave her strength for 86 years to carry on, My mother, my mother, my mother and now my mother is gone. God also gave her so much knowledge and she praised him without a doubt, ask her anything about the bible she would tell you what it's all about. No more suffering no more pain theirs nothing left for anyone to gain. Ask me and I'll tell you her heart was made of pure gold. Up in heaven the angels will hold, a woman of God for years and years and years. I stand here today before you with all my tears. She touched everyone that came into her life a man, a child, a son, a wife. This home going service today we all look around my mother is no different way with out a doubt my mother will truly be missed. My mother, my mother, my mother, yes you will be missed. I say g!
