For Harold...

If you would be blessed enough to find a friend, that friend should be loved and appreciated until the end...

A friend's position in your life can be so important that they become more than a friend, they become family and with family, there is nothing that you won't do to make certain that family knows that you're there to see them through...

A friend's love transcends all areas of your life good or bad but what's most important is that the love you share allows you the freedom to care...

There is nothing more powerful than a smile and Harold had a smile that could light the sky, with a voice that boomed like thunder although, he was as gentle as a breeze... We won't soon forget you because you meant so much to us along with all of the memories we share...

Thank You Harold for all that you've done... For now, Your Victory Has Been Won...

We Love You...
