Obituary

Christine Johnson was born on April 19, 1931 to the late Minnie Lee Williams, in Newberry, South Carolina and moved to New Jersey in the early 1950's.

Christine was a kind, joyful, lovely, beautiful and spirited woman who enjoyed life to the fullest and made everyone around her happy and filled with joy.

She was a very loving person who enjoyed music and traveling every chance she got and she truly enjoyed spending time with the love of her life Joshua and with her family.

Christine will forever be in our hearts to guide us with unimaginable love and joy.

The Lord Called Me Home

We woke up this morning and looked up to the sky and wonder why he took you before we said goodbye... He knew you were tired and in some pain, so who are we to question when the Lord called your name. The Lord knows all things and felt your discomfort, so he closed your weary eyes and softly said "Peace be Thine." So don't worry family and friends she went home to claim her space, so move over Heaven there is another Angel coming to take her place. Death is an unfortunate reality of life and those who knew her know she didn't leave without a fight. Don't cry for her now, she lived her life but it's not over now it's just out of your sight. The Lord called her home and she is at peace now, don't cry, just look up at the clear blue sky and say all your goodbye's.
