

*A Poem For Gail
Love Me Love You!*

You can cry because I am no longer here, or you can smile through those tears because I lived
Listen to the wind and you can hear my words pushing you forward
Listen to the wind and you can also hear my laughter,

Glance in the mirror from time to time, you will find me there
Parts of me, so many parts of me are in you, look for them
Look for the essence of me, it's in you I promise
Take the time to be still and don't forget to breathe
Sometimes I would forget to breathe

Don't get caught up in the nonsense of the world
We are only here for a short time as you can see
I have no regrets to take with me,
If I had any it doesn't matter now

Make the best of it, be a part of something bigger than you, bigger than me
When you think of me remember the Love I had for you,
Even if sometimes I fell off your path I took the path I knew
I always loved you and you and you
Show me you loved me Take care of each other
Be stronger than I believed you to be. Be more loving

When it comes to the end of the road, there is no one left but you
No matter who is gathered around you when it is your time you can't say no
I still have to make this journey without you and you have to let me go.
So live the best way you can. I did,
Love the best you can. I did.

Treat people with respect and kindness I hope I did
You are my family and my friends, I know you have tears but Keep your head up
My summer is gone and my transition has come so
Feel my love in the wind on a cold winter' day
Feel my love on the first day of spring,
Watch the leaves as they come to the ground in the fall,
There you will find me and my love for you all

Obituary

Gail Elizabeth Taylor was born June 30, 1951 to Carl and Vera Taylor. She was blessed with two children of her own, Joseph Davis and Nicole Davis.

Gail was educated in Jersey City, N.J. She attended St. Patrick's School from Kindergarten through eighth grade and then went on to receive her High School Diploma from Lincoln High School.

Gail embraced God at an early age being baptized at Salem Baptist Church. As she became an adult Gail would test the waters of other ways to embrace her God. When we were younger you could find her sitting at the water down by the docks here in Jersey City, Gail loved to be one with nature. I believe she got that from her Aunt Carleen. As she continued her quest for her spiritual awakening she joined Abundant Joy under the tutelage of Pastor Willard Ashley. No matter whether she was in an organized space or not Gail always knew where her help came from. She knew it came from our Lord, Our God, and Our Savior.

Gail worked for many years as a technician at the Jersey City Medical Center and left there for a position as a Handicapped Teacher-Aide for the Jersey City Board of Education at Regional Day. The students and staff were much more enlightened by the presence of Ms. Gail Taylor until her retirement of June 2018.

Everyone who knows Gail will remember her for her beautiful spirit and the way she looked at things, especially her sisters from the organization "Sassy Sisters". The right name for the group. And Yes Gail was "Sassy." She loved life and didn't mind giving you her words of wisdom that she gave freely whether you wanted it or not. Our Grandfather had a saying when he spoke to us. Are you qualified and Gail would do the same thing. "Are you qualified?"

As the years go by we come in contact with many people in our lives young and old and Gail was one of those people that made an impact on our lives. As we sit back with tears welling up in our eyes for the passing of our dear mother, sister, daughter, cousins, grands or dear friends we all know it is our loss and God's gain.

Gail will join her father Carl Taylor and her son Joseph Davis whom have already made their transition.

Gail leaves to cherish the happy moments and sometimes sad moments of her life. Her mother Vera Taylor and her Daughter Nicole Davis, Her Brother Carl Taylor, Grandchildren Dontae , Shydeara, Shayron, Ionia, Nyshekia, Shadae, Jahmier, Jo'Lynne, Joseph, Jo' Saad, Jo've on and Jo'Rihanna along with nine Great Grandchildren. Her special cousin Donna Davis who was always there to comfort her. Her aunts Joyce, Kat and Joan Taylor. She also leaves behind many cousins and other relatives and dear friends also her extended children from "Duncan Projects." She will be dearly missed by her long-time friend Rev, Dr. Bertha Reels along with Andrea Speed and Sharon Jenkins. She will also be missed by Marcelene Cole, Glenda Cole, Andrea Cole, Renee Cole-Sinkler and Marsha Trice who were more like her sisters than her cousin.
