Obituary

Sandra Johnson-Seymour was born on August 14, 1949 to Christine Johnson in Newberry, South Carolina. She moved to New Jersey as a 1 year old.

Sandra was a beautiful, kind, loving and spiritual woman that enjoyed life and everyone around her.

"Aunt San enjoyed traveling. I will never forget when she came home from Bermuda (that was where she lived). Aunt San would tell our mother to get the kids ready, "we're going on a trip". That was for every year for many years." — Shakir Gary Sandra's loving memories will be cherished by her aunt, Lillian Johnson, partner, Eric Combs, niece, Sakinah Baynard, husband, Rahsheim Gary, grand-nephew, Shakir (Ashley) Gary, Rakeim Gary, Tahsheim Gary, grand-niece Yasmeen Gary, great grand niece, Sydnei Gary, two cousins, Marcia & Dawn Johnson, great cousins, Marquita Johnson and Zekhi Whitner, and a host of family and friends.

The Lord Called Me Home

We woke up this morning and looked up to the sky and Wonder why he took you before said goodbye...

He knew you were tired and in some pain, so who are we to question when the Lord called your name. The Lord knows all things and felt your discomfort, so he closed your weary eyes and softly said "Peace be Thine." So don't worry family and friends she went home to claim her space,

so move over Heaven there is another

Angel coming to take her place. Death is an unfortunate reality of life and those who knew her know she didn't leave without a fight. Don't cry for her now, she lived her life but it's not over now it's just out of your sight. The Lord called her home and she is at peace now, don't cry, just look up at the clear blue sky and say all your goodbye's.

Acknowledgement

The family of Sandra Johnson-Seymour will remember and cherish your many expressions of love, sympathy and prayers so graciously extended,
