CeeAaquil Allah Barnes Obituary

CeeAaquil "Cee" Allah Barnes was born Cary Jeffrey Barnes on March 22, 1973 to Cary Barnes and Carolynn Adams Barnes.

Cee's education began in P.S. 40, South Jamaica, New York. He attended P.S. 101, Kew Gardens, New York, Russell Sage Junior High School, Kew Gardens,, and Springfield Gardens High School , Springfield Gardens, New York. His college education started at Farmingdale College, Farmingdale, New York. He then transferred to Queens College, Flushing, New York, and obtained a Bachelors' degree in Communications from South Hampton College, Long Island, New York.

He played RV football and was on the basketball team in junior high, high school and college. He also received an athletic college scholarship. While attending South Hampton College he was the founder of a group called DNA (Domination Not Assimilation).

He leaves behind three daughters, Nailah Aquila, created with love from his union with Karen Miller during their years at South Hampton; Amani Aaquima, and Amirah Aashay lovingly created from his current union with Lidia Taveras.

Cee was raised by the teachings of the Nation of Islam. He later became an active member of the Nation of Gods and Earths (Five Percenters). His favorite saying was "walk it like you talk it".

Cee worked in many arenas. He worked at Mount Sinai Medical Center, Manhattan, New York and Ikea, Brooklyn, New York where he was responsible for saving a customer's life by providing emergency CPR techniques. He held various security positions before accepting a profession in personal and executive protection.

Cee was a community activist. He would support any business or individual who was doing something for the good of the community. Cee's vision was based on love, strength and social agility. He was responsible for organizing a Community Center and Bookstore in Harlem, New York. The Center's vision is to provide knowledge to the community about history and the success of people of color, as well as a place for the youth to come and have a home away from home. This would allow them to become entrepreneurs and open successful businesses.

He had a great love for family and friends. He believed in the importance of family connections and had a great sense of humor. He loved to laugh and his beautiful smile was contagious.

On special occasions, he would deliver his famous Lasagna and Macaroni and Cheese to family and friends. He was an avid reader of books and loved to watch comedies. He would help anyone who needed help by any means necessary, whether it be good advice, housing or financial assistance.

To savor his memory, he is survived by his parents Cary and Carolynn Barnes; brother Craig; daughters, Nailah, Amani and Amirah; Fiancée, Lidia; sister-in-law, Shelley; nieces, Shanice and Seriah; nephew, Craig (CJ); aunts, Dawn Adams, Sharon Adams, Frances Adams, Sheila Saleem, Daphne Barnes, Toni Barnes, Toni G.
