He was a mentor to so many young men and boys at the church and in the community. In addition, Jarvis worked at J.B. Williams Pharmaceuticals, (aka Beecham Pharmaceuticals). During the 1980's, he became an entrepreneur and started his own business as an electrician, employing several workers until he became ill.

Jarvis was truly a family man and he loved Sallie, she was the love of his life and the apple of his eye and she referred to him as "Poochie." He was a great dad and loved Sharon, Reggie, his son-in-law John, his 4 grandchildren; Shonda, John III (Fats), Monique (Nichee), Shonnique and his 4 great grandchildren; Khi, KJ, Kam and Mottianna.
