Obituary

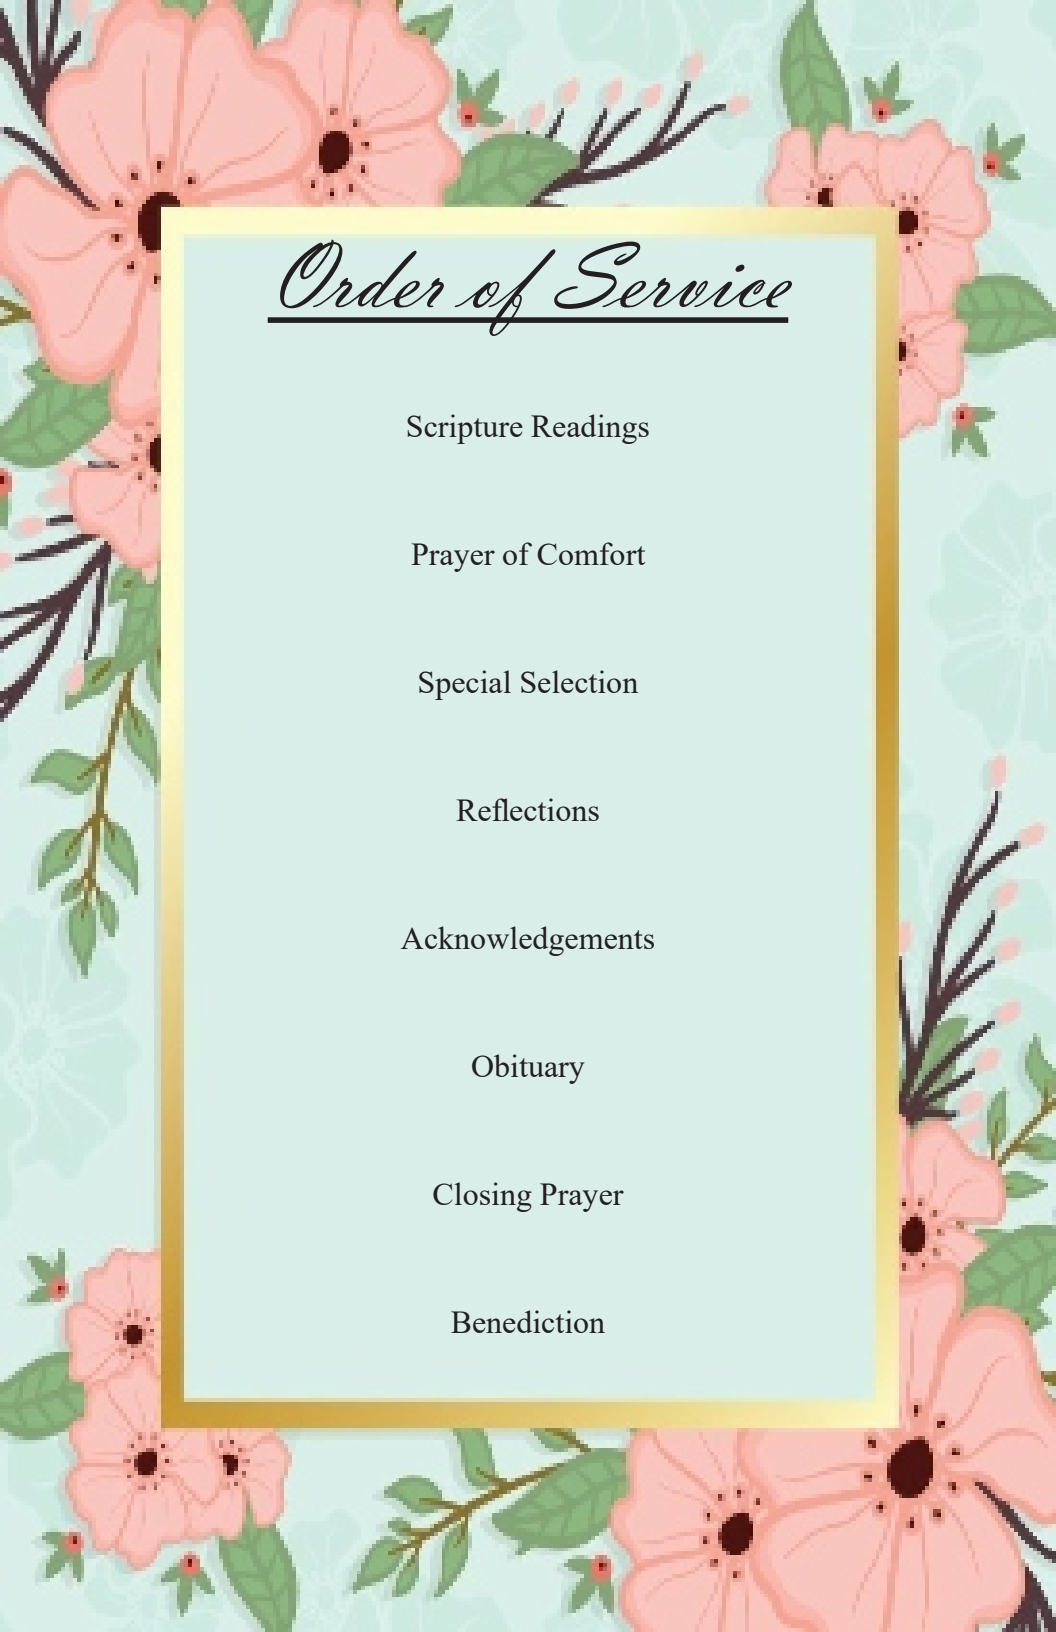

Gloria B. Cole, daughter of the late Rita and Guerrino Bergamasco was born on May 19, 1960 in Noventa, Italy.

Gloria met Wesley Cole in 1976 and they married on June 21, 1978. Gloria gave birth to her pride and joy, Nicolette Elizabeta on April 8, 1980. In 1983, the family of three moved to New York.

Gloria worked off and on outside of the home, but her main focus was being a mother and a wife. On February 26, 2016 with the birth of her grandson Logan, her world became complete. Her love for her family was everything.

She was selfless, and she always put her family first. Gloria loved being a Noda, as much as anyone could. Gloria loved Marilyn Monroe, Julio Iglesias and Josh Groban. In her final days, she clung to her faith and took comfort in the words written by Padre Pio and John Paul.

After a long battle with cancer, on Wednesday, August 26th, Gloria was called home. As she enters Paradise, she leaves behind: her husband, Wesley; daughter, Nicolette; grandson, Logan; her sisters, Lisa and Julie; sisters-in-law, Luanne and Lisa; her brother-in-law, Gary; and a host of many family and friends.

Miss Me But, Let Me Go

When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in a gloom filled room,
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little-but not too long,
and not with your head bowed low.
Remember the love that we once shared,
Miss me-but let me go.
For this is a journey that we all must take,
And each must go alone.
It's all part of the Master's plan,
A step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick at heart,
Go to the friends we know.
Laugh at the things we use to do
Miss me-but let me go.
