Obituary

Shirley Temple Robinson was born on March 24, 1938 in Charlotte, North Carolina. She was the baby girl of sixteen children of the late John Robinson and Ella Sims.

She attended school in North Carolina and moved to New York City in the 60's along with her two older sisters (the late Annie L. Browne) and Isabella Minns and her niece (the late Mary K. Robinson).

She worked at Telon Factory until she got a job as a dietary aide at Harlem Hospital. She retired from Kings County Hospital in 2003, also as a dietary aide.

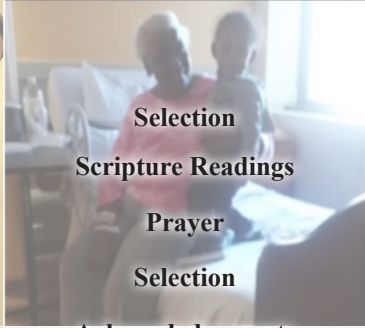

Shirley was the life of the party. She had a smile that lit up the room. No bad situations could ever phase her. She was a true friend to many.

She leaves behind to mourn her precious memories: her son, Dennis B. Robinson; her granddaughter, Nyeka Janay Robinson; one sister, Mrs. Isabella Minns (NYC); and a numerous amount of family from New York, Baltimore, MD and North Carolina and friends.

Miss Me But, Let Me Go

When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in a gloom filled room,
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little-but not too long,
and not with your head bowed low.
Remember the love that we once shared,
Miss me-but let me go.
For this is a journey that we all must take,
And each must go alone.
It's all part of the Master's plan,
A step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick at heart,
Go to the friends we know.
Laugh at the things we use to do
Miss me-but let me go.
