Obituary

Lamont Hammonds was born March 27th, 1965 in Mount Vernon, New York to the late Mae and Frank Hammonds. After the passing of his mother and father, he and his sister Adrienne were raised by their aunt Katherine Blanch. Ever since Lamont was a little boy he had a deep love for music, especially a passion for playing the drums. He loved to draw and do graffiti. He grew to become the ultimate musician and an outstanding graphic designer. He was the founder and CEO of "Urban Designz". Lamont's musical talent led him to play at famous venues such as the "Cotton Club" and the "Blue Note" jazz clubs, but the place that was the most near and dear to his heart was at church giving God the glory.

When he was not working on his creative passions, he spent many years employed by The New York City Housing Authority, and later in his career he served as a Security Guard throughout the boroughs of New York. Lamont knew how to dress! His motto was "We look good, we feel good, we smell good, it's a Hammonds thing". He also was a coffee lover. The coffee had to be piping hot, 3 sugars, 2 milks, and if it's not hot enough he would tell the store clerk to nuke it in the microwave for 30 seconds. He didn't care if it was 100 degrees outside, he needed his "Cup Of The Good Stuff". He would always say that "Ice Coffee was for punks".

Lamont left a lasting impression on everyone he met and no one was ever called by their actual name. He had a nickname for everyone he loved dearly. To know him was to love him.

Lamont is predeceased by his mother and father Mae and Frank Hammonds; aunt and second mother, Katherine Blanch; sisters, Joyce Blanch and Adrienne Hammonds and brother, Bernard Blanch.

He leaves behind his wife of 34 years, Andria Sharper-Hammonds; five children, Alexis Robinson, Lamont Hammonds, Jr., Ivory Hammonds, D'Marco Spence and Matthew Singleton; son in-law, Michael Robinson; two grandchildren, Michael Robinson III and Nyjah Robinson; three sisters, Linda Blanch, Shawn Blanch, and Mary Smith; three brothers, John Blanch, James Blanch and Paul Blanch; "brother's from another mother," Peter "Fish Boy" Chisholm, Jerome "Roc" Battle, Mark "Tanky" Wright, Chovollo "Vello" Holly, Demerlyn "Pop" Isaacs, and Derek "Pacman" Hewitt; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends too numerous to name, but definitely not forgotten.

Cosmic's World

*You went under the moniker Cosmic and stayed true to the definition Characterized by greatness especially in extent, intensity, or comprehensiveness
We'd all be remiss to not say that you were truly out of this world
Charismatic, intelligent, loving and far beyond this galaxy
You practiced being an amazing father and a amazing friend... the perfect act of duality And finally ... God has called you To transcend spiritually for another calling in another dimension
This isn't goodbye ... this is just simply another ascension Cosmic's life on earth was truly pure magic You left such an amazing impact and your presence will forever be galactic Stellar gentleman who wore his Stacy Adams Sipped his coffee, played his drums, and had crazy life stories that to the regular person would be hard to fathom Time is a currency that you spent with your loved ones diligently
And that's why we will remember thee
Legacy and impact is a understatement It's Cosmic's world & you painted your world out nicely and never became complacent
This isn't goodbye ... this is we'll see you again ... in another galaxy swirl
We are so happy that you let us be apart ... of Cosmic's world*
