

I'm Free

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free,
I'm following the path God laid for me.
I took his hand when I heard his call,
I turned my back and left it all.

I could not stay another day,
To laugh, to love, to work, to play.
Tasks left undone must stay that way,
I've found that peace at the close of the day.

If my parting has left a void,
Then fill it with remembered joy.
A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss,
Ah yes, these things I too will miss.

Be not burdened with times of sorrow,
I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow.
My Life's been full, I savoured much,
Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch,

Perhaps my time seemed all too brief,
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your heart and share with me,
God wanted me now, He set me free.

As a young adult, he studied medicine at the Université d'État d'Haiti and also taught literature at the Lycée de Mirebalais for many years. His interests were diverse, ranging from martial arts, music, spirituality, religion, holistic medicine and sports. His vast knowledge on any given topic knew no boundaries.

Here in the United States, he operated many businesses, such as a clothing and convenience store in Jersey City.

He was a fun-loving, easy-going, brilliant, intelligent, generous, loving and caring individual. He was known as a jokester, never taking life too seriously and always finding humor in any given situation. He had an infectious laughter and a positive and encouraging outlook on life in general. He was a provider and a protector. He took pride in celebrating the achievements, milestones and successes of those he loved.

Jean-Yvon Hector cherished his family. He was often the one taking the initiative to bring people together and was always eager to lend a helping hand. He contributed in ensuring that many of the youths of his family attended school, not only here in the United States, but also in Haiti.

He was a proud member of a masonic lodge and a highly graded freemason, following in the footsteps of his late father.

Jean-Yvon Hector will forever be in the hearts and minds of his family, which includes his 5 children: Jean-Yves Hector, Chimere Hector, Paola Hector, Levar Hector and Yvan Hector.
