Obituary

With profound sorrow, the Allman Family announces the passing of Ms. Patricia Jamine Allman, of Baltimore, MD.

Patricia's sunrise was on February 07, 1945, in the Bronx, New York. She was the firstborn child of the late Dolores Outram and Father Hardy. Patricia was also the firstborn grandchild and the apple in the eyes of her late grandparents Carlisle and Nancy Outram and Albena Duncan.

Patricia or "PJ" as she was affectionately known to her friends and family, spent her childhood and formative years in the Bronx. She attended public School 047 and was a proud graduate of Walton High School in the Kingsbridge Heights section of the Bronx. She would further her education by attending several vocational and certificate training courses.

She was known for her strong work ethic, securing employment in various fields including the administrative and foodservice industries. Most of her work history involved her being in service to others. One of her most beloved positions was the years she spent providing safe passage to children and parents as a school crossing patrol officer. Patricia went on to acquire certification as a home health provider, caring for seniors in the twilight of their lives.

Patricia would go through another career change, acquiring licensing as a child care provider, thus realizing her dream to own her own business. She was regarded affectionately by many for being the person who "helped raise my children" or "grandma!" In fact, her love and devotion to her own grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and the many years she spent caring for them led her to this career choice.

In 2017 Patricia relocated to the waterfront town of Far Rockaway, Queens, to enjoy her much-deserved retirement. In 2020, she relocated to Baltimore, MD, to be with her cherished great-grandchildren.

Patricia's sudden and unexpected sunset was on January 08, 2022, in The John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Maryland.

She was preceded in death by her beloved siblings, younger sister Beverly Demonde and brother Adam Allman.
