Obituary

Vivian Frye, daughter of the late Mary Lowe, was born in Harlem, New York on June 6, 1942.

Vivian graduated from Clara Barton High School. After high school, she met and married Nathaniel Frye and became a wife and mother. Vivian raised her sons and helped her mother raise her younger brother Calvin who had Down Syndrome. Vivian worked as a payroll clerk for NBC until she retired.

Vivian enjoyed life and to know Vivian was to love her. Her love for her family was unconditional. Her presence made them feel blessed and special. She always wanted the best for her sons, Derek and Darrell. She taught them to respect everyone and conduct themselves as men. When the grandchildren were born, they received that same love.

Vivian loved to shop and the Home Shopping Network, Macy's and the Gap were a few of her favorites. Vivian also loved to buy jewelry. She loved her scratch offs. You knew where she was going when she left the building in the late afternoons.

Vivian is survived by: her two children, Derek Frye of Staten Island, NY and Darrell Frye of Brooklyn, NY; two granddaughters, Nakita Lovett Frye and Danielle Natake Frye; one grandson, Elijah Frye from Staten Island, NY; and a host of other family and friends.

INTERMENT:

Mt. Rest Cemetery
Butler, New Jersey

It's so hard to say goodbye to yesterday. To my favorite girl in the whole wide world. Roses 🌹 are red violets are blue, you know your baby son always took care of you. Roses 🌹 are red violets are blue, I will never forget about you. Roses 🌹 are red violets are blue, I know you know I loved you. Roses 🌹 are red violets are blue, day and night I reminisce about you. Roses 🌹 are red violets are blue,
I know you know I will dearly miss you.

Your son,
Darrell Frye
