

Uhuru (Freedom in Swahili)

All men are born to die. We know it000-. We carry it with us always. If your day be today, so be it. Or mine today and yours tomorrow it matters not. What matters is that you know, in your heart that you are the one !

To thy own self be true and unapologetic. Don't compromise your principles even in the face of death !!

OBITUARY

Omar Enos was born on July 23, 1967 to Mattie Enos and the late Otto Bynum in Essex County, NJ. He made his transition on February 5, 2023.

He attended the Irvington public school system.

Omar was employed by "Making a Difference in Teens and Young Adults"- a program that mentors the disenfranchised leaders of our future.

The quintessence of his life was being a pillar of strength, wisdom and guidance to those around him. As a young adult, Omar lived an expeditious lifestyle. Without any doubt, you could find him in the company of his "brothers by bond" Walik, Shakil, Bas and Ish.

As he matured and overcame numerous obstacles, he began to view the world through a different lens. His values, goals and conduct took a sudden shift. He went on to enroll in college earning a Paralegal degree from Seton Hall and a Bachelors degree from Kean University.

Omar took much pride in literature. It was through reading, he began to acquire the knowledge he was able to share with his people. He also exercised and ate healthy without exception. His practices and beliefs are what helped him evolve into the man we all loved and respected; Disciplined like the military, mind and voice of an activist and the spirit of a liberal. He was affectionately known as "Poppa" by his family and friends.

Omar was preceded in death by his father Otto Bynum, his brother Emanuel Enos and his sisters Geneva Crews, Rebecca James and Betty Green.

He leaves to cherish his mother Mattie Enos; His fiance Nichelle "Nikki" Hawthorne (Newark, NJ); His sister Mattie Brown (Newark, NJ and brothers Eugene Enos, Jr. and Willie Enos, Sr. (Irvington, NJ) and Eddie Enos (Salisbury, Maryland). His sisters-in-law Lottie Enos and Yacie Enos, both of Irvington NJ. He also leaves to cherish a host of nieces, nephews and other loving family and friends.
